

The Customs House

Christophe Harbour's innovative Customs House confirms the exclusive marina development as 'The New Gateway to the Caribbean'. Underneath an iconic cupola, reminiscent of the formidable shipping company headquarters that lined the Thames in Victorian London, the building is at the heart of the growing Marina Village, where luxury shops are already proving popular with passing superyacht crews, Park Hyatt guests and visitors from around the world. 466 4557

What's New?

Visitors who've been to St. Kitts and Nevis before might be wondering: what's new for this year? BY PETER SWAIN

The Stone Barn

The five-star Park Hyatt on the Southeast Peninsula has a variety of restaurant options, with the new Stone Barn now one of the best fine dining venues on island. International fare includes slow-roasted, five-spiced duck, crustacean bouillabaisse, and line-caught fresh fish. Dishes are cooked in a hearth and presented either as food to share or as individual dishes. 468 1234

UNCLE FAT'S

The Royal St. Kitts Hotel on Frigate Bay already has great bars, so the new hospitality outlets in the Royal Plaza out front highlight the area as one of the island's social hotspots. Uncle Fat's is a lively sports bar with TVs for the ball game, its very own micro-brewery, a varied cocktail menu and a range of lip-smacking food to suit everyone. Lobster corn dogs? Check. Pulled pork nachos? Check. Spicy pepperoni pizza? Check. Wanna get up and dance? OK. 466 7999

Crowned Monkey Rhum Bar

The Four Seasons is undergoing a multimillion-dollar refurbishment, with all 195 rooms, the swimming pools and restaurants getting major makeovers; a new double pier now accommodates superyachts and can act as a 'Rosé and beer on the pier' party place. Notably, the old Library Bar has been transformed into the Crowned Monkey Rhum Bar, offering a cigars and cocktail service with rum-tasting programmes, as well as light bites and charcuterie. 469 1111

IT'S GREEN

In February 2018, Prime Minister Dr. the Hon. Timothy Harris flipped the switch on the first set of traffic lights in the Federation.

LE BAR

It started with freshly made sushi on Wednesday nights, then expanded to include pasta, pizza, burgers, snacky appetizers and local specials on Fridays and Saturdays. Doreen Caron's restaurant and bar at Cliffdwellers is still evolving, but already a firm favourite. The wine and cocktail lists are refreshingly short but the saké slips down nicely with the best sushi on island, and rum goes with everything. Ringing ahead to check the menu and book a table is advised. 667 7239
